

National strike including railways and public transport on February 13th, Belgium

The railway and public transport unions (TEC, De Lijn, STIB) will take part in the nation-wide strike on February 13th, 2019. This has been announced by trade union representatives. They have lodged a strike notice. The strike at the railway starts on February 12th at 10:00 p.m. and lasts 24 hours.

On February 13th, unions across the country called on private sector workers to go on strike to protest against faltering collective bargaining with employers.

The SNCB will draw up a minimum service plan. Since the beginning of last year, in the event of a strike, a minimum service has been mandatory for the railways. During the last major rail strike at the end of June 2018, every third train ran.
